

COVID-19 Update

April 3, 2020

Dear Valued Customer – Please be advised that because of the changing global environment shipment confirmation dates may be impacted. It may be difficult for us to provide precise status and recovery details due to the rapidly changing situation, but we are committed to providing more clarity as situations become stable. Please continue to work with your sales contact for critical order status updates and be assured that we are doing everything possible to meet our commitments and to support you and your business through this crisis.

We are updating www.bjgelectronics.com daily providing a summary status listing for our Suppliers as well as individual Supplier Statements as they are received. We recommend visiting our website each day as Supplier production and supply chain status is changing frequently.

- Our current inventory position is available on:
 - www.bjgelectronics.com
 - www.eciaauthorized.com
- PLEASE CONTACT us to support potential shortages as we have significant available inventory

Again, we are considered an “essential business” and a critical part of the Military/Defense supply chain. Our country relies on our products to ensure our protection and the protection of those that protect us in the service of our country. The “essential business” designation applies to all of our facilities and divisions.

This is our third formal message regarding business continuity, we are updating our website daily, and our Team is working diligently to support your needs through this challenging time driven by force majeure events.

We very much appreciate your ongoing support and partnership.
